

Disability Rights New Jersey or DRNJ is a private, non-profit, consumer-driven organization that advocates for and advances the rights of individuals with disabilities through a broad range of legal and advocacy services. DRNJ serves as New Jersey's designated protection and advocacy system for individuals with disabilities, including individuals who have survived a brain injury.

Brain Injury

According to the Brain Injury Association of America (BIAA), "brain injury refers to an injury in which an insult to the brain causes damage to the brain. Brain injuries are often described as traumatic or acquired based on the cause of the injury."

Traumatic brain injury (TBI) is an injury to the brain caused by external physical force. Some causes of TBI include motor vehicle accidents, falls, sports injuries and concussions. A TBI may be mild or severe and result in short or long term cognitive, physical, or emotional impairment.

Acquired brain injury (ABI) is an injury to the brain caused by certain medical conditions, including strokes, encephalitis, aneurysms, anoxia (lack of oxygen), metabolic disorders, meningitis, or brain tumors.
